

Arun Wakhlu

Arun is a globally recognized trainer, coach and facilitator in Leadership and Organizational Transformation with over 25,000 hours of experience in facilitation and coaching.

His wealth of experience includes facilitation of leadership workshops in India, France, USA, Australia, Singapore, Dubai, South Africa, Finland, The Netherlands and several other countries for leading Indian and international organizations.

Arun's standout quality has been the fact that he has worked with cross-cultural teams internationally. During this long and adventurous journey, Arun has designed and facilitated a repertoire of ground-breaking programs on Creative Thinking, Thought Leadership, Organizational Transformation, Inclusive HR practices etc... and is the originator/ pioneer of the models and practice of Wholesome Leadership and Wholesome Development.

Author of the award winning book "Managing from the Heart", co-author of four other books, publisher of over 30 papers and founder-chairman of Pragati Leadership-a 25 year-old trusted Learning and Development partner to some of the biggest corporations across the world – that is Arun Wakhlu in a nutshell.

After graduating from the Indian Institute of Technology (Delhi) in Electrical Engineering, Arun did a post-graduate diploma course in Business Administration from the Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad before starting Pragati Leadership. Dig deeper and you will discover that Arun is a true believer in the concept of One Wholesome World: a world which is joyful, socially just and healthy for all (including future generations) co-created by communities of people who are living and leading consciously.