

François Dauvergne

François is coach and management consultant, specialized in change management and organizational development.

François has been coaching and consulting for over 25 years in Europe, developing teams, coaching executives and managers and supervising consultants. He privileges Palo Alto approach in his work, in particular for coaching and team building. This efficient and discreet approach frees-up people and organizations potential towards higher flexibility, autonomy and initiative.

Business and management school graduate, he is certified in Transactional Analysis, NLP, Strategic Approach and Palo-Alto model. A solid and continuous supervision work and a strong commitment in a group practice sharing reinforce his engagement when working with Clients. A deep personal work using Jungian psychology and humanist therapy ensure him a strong hold.

François teaches at HEC in the Executive Education course. He is very active in developing management consulting.

He works in English and French.